

As an exact replica of the flagstones in the abbey cellars, a glass panel placed 5 cm from the floor reflects the arch of sedimentary and metamorphic rock to transform the space into a giant egg shape. The space becomes a protecting belly, a giant womb. There is also a relation with the image of the lake in the grotto.